1. Introduction

This standard defines the requirements a person or organisation shall meet to become a Certified Genotype Data Provider submitting data to the Dairy Industry Good Animal Database (DIGAD). The Certified Genotype Data Provider is a Certified Data Provider (CDP). The CDP is responsible for analysing the samples submitted by a Certified Data Provider – Nominator for Genetic Testing ('nominator for genetic testing') and submitting the genetic test results and the associated metadata ('genetic test data') for Animal Evaluation (AE) to DIGAD.

The Certification Process for becoming a CDP is also included in this document.

The DNA information available from genetic testing of dairy cattle has at least four applications:

- parentage verification;
- parentage or pedigree discovery;
- genotype data or profile – used for genomic predictions in animal evaluations (dams and sires) and characterising inbreeding and relatedness and for breeding programmes; and
- management of genetic conditions and/or qualitative traits (genetic variants).

In practice, dairy producers undertake DNA or genetic testing of their animals for a combination of these reasons.

This standard is to ensure the CDP has the required procedures, processes, knowledge and skills and genetic testing products so farmers and others contracting genetic tests are confident the results are compatible with DIGAD Database requirements, and that the data will be acceptable for Animal Evaluation.

The Certification Process for becoming a CDP is also included in this document.

Note – A Certified Genotype Provider can be approved to provide a service as a Certified Data Provider – Nominator for Genetic Testing. See the Certification Standard for Certified Data Provider – Nominator for Genetic Testing for Animals for the Dairy Industry Good Animal Database

2. Purpose of this Standard

This standard defines the expectations of professional practice for CDPs. The purpose of this standard is to provide confidence that CDPs conduct their work in a manner consistent with this standard and DIGAD data standards. It also ensures data management follows an approved process compatible with the functionality of DIGAD so data are eligible for inclusion in animal evaluation.

3. Scope

This standard defines the requirements for CDPs and the responsibilities for CDPs supplying services for the approved fields of activity for genetic testing.

CDPs are required to:

- validate the samples and the sample submission sheet for completeness;
- assist the nominator for genetic testing to resolve any data anomalies that prevent an animal's data from being submitted or analysed by the Certified Genotype Data Provider,
- validate their data for completeness,
- submit genetic test data, including the required metadata, to DIGAD or to a Herd Record Provider (see Terms and Definitions), and
- assist the manager of DIGAD, or their nominee, to resolve any data anomalies that prevent an animal's data from being uploaded to DIGAD.

This standard also includes:

- The processes required to deliver the services, including reporting, complaints and appeals.
- The ongoing requirements CDPs are required to meet to retain their certified status, and recertification requirements.
- The contractual obligations between CDPs and:
  - the nominator for genetic testing,
  - the Certification Body, and

- NZAEL (the Manager of NZAEL).

Where the requirements of this standard overlap with the requirements of accreditation standards such as ISO 17025 the requirements are accepted as met for this standard.

4. Terms and Definitions

Throughout this standard specific words are used which have particular meanings within the scheme, as follows:

Animal durable code	The animal durable key with the suffix 'DK' left padded with 0's to make 12 digits, e.g. DK000012345678
Animal durable key	The primary unique animal identification assigned to each animal when it is enrolled with DIGAD. The Animal Durable Key is a lifetime identification that persists regardless of change to other mandatory or optional identifiers.
Approved fields of activity	The data fields that the Certified Data Provider has been certified to access and supply to DIGAD.
Certification Body	The auditing organisation appointed by the NZAEL Board to audit and certify individuals and organisations as Herd Record Providers and Certified Data Providers to NZAEL.
Certified Data Provider (CDP)	Individuals or organisations that are certified by the approved Certification Body as meeting the appropriate standard for the supply of non-regulated data or information to NZAEL. Each farmer (i.e. participant) can contract multiple Certified Data Providers.
Client	A Certified Data Provider – Nominator for Genetic Testing or NZAEL or their nominee, or both.
Cow	A female dairy animal that has had at least one calf and is used for dairy production.
DairyNZ Limited (DairyNZ)	The industry organisation that is funded by a dairy farmer levy to represent all New Zealand dairy farmers.
Dairy Industry Good Animal Database (DIGAD)	A database containing ancestry and performance data for every recorded dairy cow in New Zealand. This database is intended to contain all the data required for AE. DIGAD contains the core database and other data fields.
DIGAD Data standards	The standards developed under the oversight of the DIGAD Data standards Committee. The standards set out the requirements for DIGAD Data Providers to be certified by the Certification Body.
Genetic test data	The genetic test results and associated metadata.
Herd Record Provider (HRP)	A DIGAD Data Provider certified by the approved Certification Body as meeting the appropriate standard for the supply of data or information to NZAEL. An HRP is contracted by a farmer to enrol animals, manage animal movements, and animal termination in DIGAD on behalf of the farmer. Each farmer (i.e. participant) can only contact one Herd Record Provider.
New Zealand Animal Evaluation Ltd (NZAEL)	The organisation that develops and delivers the technologies that publish the independent evaluation of all dairy animals using the Breeding Worth (BW) index.

5. General Scheme Requirements for Certified Data Provider Submitting Genetic Test Data for Animal Evaluation for Animals

To be certified as able to submit genetic test data for AE for animals, an individual or organisation shall have met all of this standard's requirements and those in the 'DIGAD Data standard for Submitting Parentage and Breed Recording and Genetic Testing for the Dairy Industry Good Animal Database ('Genetic testing standard'). These standards identify the criteria that verify competencies, systems, processes and practices have been effectively met.

These standards may be updated as required by the DIGAD Data standards Committee.

6. Structure of this Standard

This standard sets out the:

- requirements to provide confidence that CDPs are conducting their activities in a manner consistent with this standard and Genetic testing standard (Clause 7),
- the application process (Clause 8 and Appendix 1), and
- the contracts required to apply and act as a Certified Data Provider (Clause 7.8 and Appendices 1 - 3).

7. General Requirements for Certified Data Providers Submitting Genetic Test Data for Animal Evaluation for Animals

7.1. Ensuring competence

CDP submitting genetic test results for AE for animals shall:

- Possess (own, lease, outsource or have access to) appropriate computer hardware, software and programmes for the functions and duties they are seeking accreditation for. These include computer hardware and software capable of processing and submitting data to DIGAD within the timeframes agreed with the NZAEL Manager.
- Have the following policies and procedures:
  - Document and contract management.
  - IT security and privacy.
  - Internal audit and quality management systems.
  - Process to notify DIGAD and their client when uploading data to DIGAD fails.
Note: CDPs should resolve any data upload failures within 15 working days of the upload error occurring. If the issue remains unresolved after this period, they shall notify the NZAEL Manager and indicate a date by when the issue is likely to be resolved. When possible, intermediate steps will be agreed to rectify the data for upload.
  - System back-up and recovery procedures.
  - Measures to ensure record security and confidentiality.
- Ensure they have sufficient staff, whether employed or contracted, and that their staff have the skills and experience to perform the functions and duties required of them. This includes ensuring:
  - there are documented standard operating procedures for providing the services;
  - each person providing the service has been trained and is competent in applying the standard operating procedures, using the software and programmes required to deliver the service, and submit the data to DIGAD or their nominee. Note: records of each person's training, are to be kept while they are employed.
- Be able to demonstrate competence by successfully uploading a test set of samples for the CDP's 'field of activity' which meet NZAEL data submission requirements before they will be approved for full certification.
- Demonstrate the applicant has established a working relationship with one or more approved nominators for genetic testing or are themselves an approved nominator for genetic testing.

7.2. CDP advice to client

The CDP will provide advice to their nominator for genetic testing on:

- the success rate of the sample analysis and data submitted to DIGAD; and
- when necessary, they should assist the nominator for genetic testing to identify options for resolving samples that could not be analysed, or advise if data uploads fail due to errors with the animal durable code.

7.3. Provision of data to DIGAD

The CDP will confirm with the nominator for genetic testing, the nominator has a current contract with the farmer that authorises their data to be submitted to NZAEL or their nominee.

The genetic testing data shall be submitted electronically, via an FTP server or equivalent file sharing process, as agreed with NZAEL or their nominee.

7.4. Safeguarding impartiality

The CDP shall have policies and processes that ensure that commercial, financial, or other pressures do not compromise the impartiality of decisions. The impartiality processes shall identify risks to impartiality (including those that arise from their own activities or from organisational or personnel relationships) and shall identify how those risks are managed.

Where a CDP has a pre-existing working relationship with a nominator for genetic testing, this relationship should be disclosed to the Certification Body at the time of application.

The CDP will disclose any potential conflicts to the Certification Body at the time of application.

7.5. Complaints or appeals

A complaint or appeal is any matter (act, omission or decision) where a client expresses dissatisfaction with a service, regardless of the extent of that dissatisfaction, the seriousness of the matter, or whether it is considered to be justified or not.

CDPs are required to have a system for managing complaints or appeals that has processes to:

- receive, acknowledge, evaluate, and make decisions on complaints and appeals;
- gather all necessary information to progress the complaint or appeal;
- resolve complaints or appeals;
- ensure decisions are made free of conflict of interest or bias; and
- give formal notice of the outcome of the complaint or appeal review.

CDPs should maintain a register of client complaints or appeals that summarises:

- the date the complaint or appeal was received,
- the nature of the complaint or appeal,
- who made the complaint or appeal,
- who managed the complaint or appeal,
- how the complaint or appeal was resolved, and
- the date the complaint or appeal was resolved.

The CDP may have their own complaints process or they may use the template complaint form and complaint procedure. Email complaints to Support.NZAEL@DairyNZ.co.nz.

7.6. Management requirements

All documents associated with the CDP shall be version controlled including any name changes. Controlled versions shall be retained for a period of three years after the document has been updated.

7.7. Contractual requirements

CDPs shall have written agreements with the Certification Body, NZAEL and their clients.

Contracts shall be retained for a period of three years after the contract terminates. The contracts shall also be available to an auditor if requested.

7.7.1. Contract with the Certification Body

CDPs are required to have a written agreement with the Certification Body:

- a) as part of the application process,
- b) to agree to the terms and conditions for monitoring and maintaining certification when certified (see Appendix 1).

The CDP application form includes the contract terms and conditions between the applicant and the Certification Body. These terms and conditions also apply when an applicant becomes certified and applicants agree to them when they sign the application form.

Applicants who wish to vary the terms and conditions shall contact the Certification Body to agree a variance. The agreed variance shall be included in the application form with the accompanying evidence of agreement.

7.7.2. Contract with NZAEL

CDPs are required to enter a data-sharing agreement with NZAEL. For the certification process to begin the NZAEL data-sharing agreement (see Appendix 2) shall be signed and submitted with the applicant's application form. The NZAEL data-sharing agreement only becomes effective from the date of CDP certification.

Applicants who wish to vary the terms and conditions of the data-sharing agreement shall contact NZAEL to agree a variance. The applicant shall share a signed copy of the agreed revised data-sharing agreement with NZAEL.

7.7.3. Contract with CDP clients

CDPs are required to have a written contract with the nominator(s) for genetic testing. The contract shall include clauses that:

- Hold the CDP, NZAEL and DairyNZ harmless for all activities undertaken on their behalf as a CDP.
- Authorise data access and supply of data from the Certified Data Provider – Nominator for genetic testing and the nominator's client.
- Identify that data ownership is retained by the person submitting the animal samples for genetic testing.
- A disclaimer indemnifying NZAEL. The disclaimer shall be included on any client report where certification status is noted or implied (see Appendix 2: NZAEL DIGAD Data Supply and Access Agreement for the specific clauses).

Note – Appendix 3 provides an example of a contract that could be used with a CDPs contract with nominators for genetic testing.

8. Applications for Certified Data Provider

8.1. Application process

CDP applications for submitting genetic test data for AE for animals shall be submitted to the designated Certification Body on the appropriate application form (please email Support.NZAEL@DairyNZ.co.nz) and accompanied by the prescribed certification fee identified on the application form. The Certification Body shall carry out an initial certification audit within 60 working days of receiving the application.

8.2. Application review

When the Certification Body receives a CDP application it will be reviewed to ensure that: the information submitted is sufficient to complete the certification process, any apparent gaps in the applicant's understanding are resolved, and the Certification Body has all the information needed to conduct the assessment.

The Certification Body will conduct an introductory online consultation with the applicant to provide an overview of the process and introduce the applicant to the certification process and documentation. At the conclusion of the interview the applicant can decide whether to continue with the certification process or withdraw. If the applicant withdraws, they shall confirm their withdrawal from the certification process in writing and will receive a 50% refund on the 20th of the month following the receipt of the written notification.

8.3. Provisional certification

A provisional certification is issued after the successful completion of the certification process. Once NZAEL confirms that the CDP has successfully imported data into DIGAD without using an automated process. The provision certification enables the applicant to be eligible to tender for analyses and determine the business case for investing in automated systems for transferring data to DIGAD.

The Provisional Certification status can transfer to full certification with confirmation of a successful transfers of data via an FTP server or equivalent file share for the genotype and metadata files.

8.4. Term of certification

The Certification Body may issue a 'Short Term Certification' or 'Full Certification' (see below) depending on the demonstrated competency of the applicant. This is based on the information provided, or gathered, during the certification process.

8.4.1. Short Term Certification

'Short Term Certification' may be issued based on the:

- quality of data submitted to DIGAD; and
- completeness and quality of the documentation required by the Certification Body; and
- approved genetic testing products are offered commercially, or if updated are certified.

8.4.2. Full Certification

A CDP receiving Full Certification will retain it provided that:

- high quality data are routinely submitted to DIGAD, any areas of improvement are actioned and the improvements are achieved; and
- timeliness for resolving any data anomalies; and
- the documentation required by the Certification Body is maintained and any requests for documents to be updated are completed; and
- the annual warranty checklist is completed and submitted to the Certification Body, and no areas of concern arise from the submitted document; and
- approved genetic testing products are offered commercially, or if updated are certified.

8.5. The quality of data submitted to DIGAD

NZAEL can assess the quality of data submitted to DIGAD. This assessment may include the:

- completeness of data supplied;
- timeliness of supply; and
- timeliness for resolving any data anomalies.

If there are areas that need improvement NZAEL will contact the CDP to discuss them. They will also monitor the data submitted for improvement.

Where NZAEL determines that data would not be of suitable quality to be eligible for animal evaluation and the CDP is unable to improve the data quality within the agreed timeframe, or within 6 months of the notification, NZAEL can advise the CDP that it will be recommending that the CDP's certification status is discontinued. It will simultaneously advise the Certification Body.

8.6. Completeness and quality of the documentation for the Certification Body

The Certification Body's requirements for CDPs to update and maintain documents will be provided as part of the certification process. A CDP's continued certification is conditional on the CDP meeting these requirements. In addition, the CDP will be required to complete an annual warranty checklist.

In the event that documentation is not maintained, or the annual warranty checklist not provided then the processes for termination or suspension will be initiated.

9. Termination, Suspension or Withdrawal of Certification

- When certified entities request the suspension or withdrawal of their certification, it shall be suspended or withdrawn, and the CDP register will be updated.
- When it is apparent that, after having been given reasonable directions and time to do so, a certified entity fails to correct non-conformities against the certification standard their certification shall be withdrawn in 90 days from the date of notification, unless otherwise agreed in writing or the unresolved issues are rectified before the termination date.

In the event that the certification status is terminated the CDP can only regain certification by applying for certification and being successful in attaining certification.

- If a certified entity makes incorrect, misleading, or unauthorised references to their certification or uses their certification in such a manner as to bring the animal evaluation or DIGAD data standards, NZAEL, DairyNZ, or the Certification Body into disrepute then the procedures to be followed are:
  - When it is apparent that, after having been given reasonable directions and time to do so, a certified entity fails to correct incorrect or misleading references to their certification, then their certification shall be withdrawn.
  - When a certified entity has their certification withdrawn, the Certification Body Programme Manager will notify the NZAEL Manager.

10. Register of Certified Data Providers Submitting Genetic Test Data for Animal Evaluation for animals

A publicly available Register of Certified Data Providers submitting genetic test data for animals for AE will be maintained and will show the:

- name of each CDP, their approved fields of activity and status (i.e. Provisional Certification or Full Certification);
- contact person, address and telephone number of each CDP;
- issue date of the list; and
- name and address of the Certification Body.

A copy of the register for Certified Data Providers submitting genetic test data for AE for animals and their approved fields of activity can be found by contacting Support.NZAEL@DairyNZ.co.nz.
